DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

1. The information disclosure statement filed 24 January 2005 fails to comply with 37 CFR 1.98(a)(2), which requires a legible copy of each cited foreign patent document; each non-patent literature publication or that portion which caused it to be listed; and all other information or that portion which caused it to be listed. It has been placed in the application file, but the information referred to therein has not been considered with the exception of those documents cited by the examiner on form PTO 892.

Claim Objections

2. Claim 9 is objected to because of the following informalities: The limitation "effectice" in line 4 should be "effective". Appropriate correction is required.

3. Claim 5 is objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c), as being of improper dependent form for failing to further limit the subject matter of a previous claim. Applicant is required to cancel the claim(s), or amend the claim(s) to place the claim(s) in proper dependent form, or rewrite the claim(s) in independent form. Claim 5 is dependent from claim 5 and is therefore in improper dependent form.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

4. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Art Unit: 1655

5. Claims 1-5 provides for the use of a fermented wheat germ extract and an anti-inflammatory agent, but, since the claim does not set forth any steps involved in the method/process, it is unclear what method/process applicant is intending to encompass. A claim is indefinite where it merely recites a use without any active, positive steps delimiting how this use is actually practiced.

Claims 1-5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed recitation of a use, without setting forth any steps involved in the process, results in an improper definition of a process, i.e., results in a claim which is not a proper process claim under 35 U.S.C. 101. See for example Ex parte Dunki, 153 USPQ 678 (Bd.App. 1967) and Clinical Products, Ltd. v. Brenner, 255 F. Supp. 131, 149 USPQ 475 (D.D.C. 1966).

6. Claims 1, 3, 6, and 9 is rendered vague and indefinite by the recitation of the trademark "Avemar". The relationship between a trademark and the product it identifies is sometimes indefinite, uncertain, and arbitrary. The formula or characteristics of the product may change from time to time and yet it may continue to be sold under the same trademark. In patent specifications, every element or ingredient of the product should be set forth in positive, exact, intelligible language, so that there will be no uncertainty as to what is meant. Arbitrary trademarks which are liable to mean different things at the pleasure of manufacturers do not constitute such language. Ex Parte Kattwinkle, 12 USPQ 11 (Bd. App. 1931).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

7. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

Art Unit: 1655

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

8. Claims 1-5 and 9-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for a treatment of arthritis in a mammal using an effective amount of wheat germ extract, does not reasonably provide enablement for a prevention of arthritis. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to use the invention commensurate in scope with these claims. Applicant have reasonable demonstrated/disclosed that the claimed wheat germ extract is a useful thereapeutic agent in treating arthritis. However, the claims also encompass using the claimed extract to prevent arthritis which is clearly beyond the scope of the instantly disclosed/claimed invention. Please note that the term "prevent" is an absolute definition which means to stop from occurring and, thus, requires a higher standard for enablement than does "treat", especially since it is notoriously well accepted in the medical art that the vast majority of afflictions/disorders suffered by mankind cannot be totally prevented with current therapies (other than certain vaccination regimes) – including preventing such disorders as arthritis (which clearly is not recognized in the medical art as being a totally preventable condition).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

9. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

10. Claims 1-2 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Zaltnai et al (Carcinogenesis, vol. 22, no. 10 pp. 1649-1652, 2001).

The claims are drawn to a fermented wheat germ extract composition is apparently claimed, as is a method of treating/preventing arthritis therewith. The cited reference teaches a method and composition using fermented wheat germ extract (see abstract and entire document) for treating such conditions as rheumatoid arthritis and lupus (page 1649, column 2). The cited reference discloses that treatment of rheumatoid arthritis with wheat germ extract showed clinically significant therapeutic effects in experimental models (i.e. mammals). Therefore, the reference is deemed to anticipate the instant claims above.

10. Claims 1-2 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hidvegi et al (WO 99/08694).

The cited reference teaches an orally administered fermented wheat germ extract composition (see entire document). Please note that administering the fermented wheat germ extract composition taught by the cited reference would inherently prevent arthritis as instantly claimed (see abstract and entire document). Therefore, the reference is deemed to anticipate the instant claims above.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

11. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

12. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Zalatnai et al in view of Gelber et al (USP#6,576,267).

The teaching of Zalatnai et al are set forth above but does not expressly teach also using an anti-inflammatory agent.

Gelber et al. beneficially teaches that non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs such as diclophenac are preferably useful in treating/relieving pain including against arthritis (see, e.g., column 2, lines 44-48; and column 4, lines 49-58, and Tables 4-5).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the claimed invention was made to combine the instant ingredients for their known benefit since each is well known in the art for the same purpose (e.g., treating arthritis) and for the following reasons. It is well known that it is prima facie obvious to combine two or more ingredients each of which is taught by the prior art to be useful for the same purpose in order to form a third composition which is useful for the same purpose. The idea for combining them flows logically from their having been used individually in the prior art. In re Sussman, 1943 C.D. 518; In re Pinten, 459 F.2d 1053, 173 USPQ 801 (CCPA 1972); In re Susi, 58 CCPA 1074, 1079-80; 440 F.2d 442, 445; 169 USPQ 423, 426 (1971); In re Crockett, 47 CCPA 1018, 1020-21; 279 F.2d 274, 276-277; 126 USPQ 186, 188 (1960). This rejection is based on the well established proposition of patent law that no invention resides in combining old ingredients of known properties where the results obtained thereby are no more than the additive effect of the ingredients.

From the teachings of the references, it is apparent that one of ordinary skill in the art would have had a reasonable expectation of success in producing the claimed invention. Therefore, the invention as a whole was prima facie obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, as evidenced by the references, especially in the absence of evidence to the contrary.
